
Bailey Wilberts Biography 2013

I graduated from Iowa State University College of Veterinary Medicine in 2011 and subsequently entered into a combined veterinary pathology residency and Ph.D. program at the same institution. My current research focus is on Brachyspira-associated colitis of swine with studies examining pathogenesis and the development of improved diagnostic techniques. My career goals include pursuing excellence in infectious disease diagnostics, infectious disease research, and classroom instruction.