
Tuddow Thaiwong Biography 2013

I had my DVM degree from Thailand, then got my PhD degree in comparative Medicine and Integrative biology program from Michigan State University last year. Currently, I am a second year veterinary anatomic pathology resident at diagnostic center and population and animal health, Michigan State University. My research of interest involves genetics and molecular pathobiology in cancer. I love to cook and sleep in my free time.