
Heather Herd Biography 2014

Originally from southern California, I moved to Stillwater, Oklahoma from Glasgow, Scotland, after veterinary school, to attend a residency in anatomic pathology in 2013. I am now a second year anatomic pathology resident at Oklahoma State University and I have relished the opportunities presented to me while at OSU. I truly love what I do and hope to use my passion for veterinary pathology to enhance the understanding and learning of veterinary medicine through teaching. When I am not learning about pathology, I enjoy spending time outside and travelling new places with my husband, David, our dog, Manny, and friends.