From the Executive Director's desk- Jim Kistler

AAVLD has been on a fast track over the last few months – from hiring an Executive Director to hosting a very successful annual meeting and scientific conference. In my new role as Executive Director, this time has flown by.

AAVLD is planning an aggressive transformation to better serve you. We have already begun evaluating the effectiveness of our website. A survey has been sent to all members seeking input regarding website functions that are beneficial and others that may be obsolete. Responses to the survey will be collected through the close of business on Wednesday, November 21. If you have not responded but would like to do so, the survey can be accessed by click here

Another new item implemented this year was a free QA Symposium immediately preceding the AAVLD Annual Meeting. In year's past, the symposiums were accompanied by an additional fee. Your AAVLD leadership believes in delivering member value for your dues investment and this free symposium was a part of that effort. The effort was a success as registration for this event nearly tripled. To view the QA Symposium documents Click here

AAVLD has now established a presence on Facebook. Member news items and items of public interest can now be accessed by 'Liking' AAVLD on Facebook. You can Click here then click the "Like" button.

Another member benefit is your AAVLD voice in Washington D.C. AAVLD hired a lobbyist to work on behalf of members the nation's capital. This effort resulted in continued funding for the NAHLN laboratory network in 2012. We are working to increase and stabilize that funding for future years.

As the transformation begins, AAVLD will be exploring ways to further enhance member benefits by considering:

- Using social media to support member-to-member networking
- Establishing online discussion forums with information archiving
- Creating user friendly calendars of events
- Improving member search capabilities
- Promoting animal health diagnostics to future members, the public and government officials

Please do not hesitate to contact the AAVLD office with suggestions / comments.

Jim Kistler
Executive Director

AAVLD Foundation auction and News for 2013

The AAVLD Foundation raised ~$12,000 at the annual auction this year, the highest level since the event began. Foundation funds are used for travel awards for graduate students and trainees, as well as, veterinary students considering a future in diagnostic and regulatory veterinary medicine. This year the Foundation will be developing the guidelines for veterinary student externship stipends.

The Foundation committee also voted to raise the travel award to 1500.00 from the current 1000.00 beginning in 2013.

We need your help!

AAVLD really needs the help of our members to get the word out so deserving trainees are aware they can apply for a number of awards. The trainee travel application process requires them to post a short letter detailing their contribution to a first author abstract for an AAVLD poster or presentation and its significance to diagnostic medicine, a brief (1-2 page) biographical data sheet and a letter from their mentor. All these items are posted at the time they post their abstracts for the annual meeting. In addition, they should check off all awards they wish to be considered for including poster and presentation awards. The Foundation strongly encourages all AAVLD members to inform graduate students and residents of this opportunity to have most or all of their AAVLD annual meeting travel funded through this competitive travel award program.
